MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

SUBJECT : Possible News Media Speakers for the Advanced Intelligence Seminar

1. The following news media personalities are being considered as guest speakers for Advanced Intelligence Seminar No. 8, to be conducted from 1 to 21 March. No more than two would be invited to discuss -- solo or as a panel -- subject matter related to "Domestic Politics and Foreign Policy." This presentation is projected for 6 March. We will seek the Director's approval before extending an invitation.

Charles L. Bartlett, Columnist, Chicago Sun Times
Mel Elfin, Senior Editor, Newsweek
Richard L. Harwood, National Editor, Washington Post
James J. Kilpatrick, Columnist, Washington Star
William Raspberry, Local Columnist, Washington Post
Carl T. Rowan, Syndicated Columnist

2. Mr. Elfin joined the September and November 1971 Advanced Intelligence Seminar and Mr. Bartlett participated in the Midcareer Course in July 1971.

3. You were previously informed of our request for security approval or re-approval of Bartlett, Harwood, and Rowan for possible use in the next Senior Seminar. It is unlikely that we would invite the same individual to participate in the Senior Seminar if he is invited to speak in the Advanced Intelligence Seminar.

4. Background information for each of the above is attached.

20 JAN 1972

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Training

Hugh:

Since the Director had encouraged early consultation on media representatives proposed as participants in Agency courses, I sent to him the names in your 5 January memorandum less Kelman who was I gather mistakenly included. I drew immediate reaction which in part reflects also the unfortunate outcome of the Barnet session with the first Senior Seminar.

The Director is very explicit in policy guidance - he wants us to have different viewpoints represented but he is completely insistent that we not make selections such as Barnet, who attempted to profit from his appearance at the Agency, or a "known Communist" such as Isidore Stone whose appearance could well produce an incredulous reaction from even the most liberal-minded young employees. He is most insistent that this guidance be understood by all concerned and was fully prepared to discuss it directly should there be any positions or attitudes which run contrary.

I feel badly in that I did not spot with understanding Stone's name (and also in response to another DCI question that I did not know what sort of a publication "Liberation" is). It is clear, however, that we must focus on the problem of selecting proponents of varying viewpoints in such a manner that we do not bring in people who would deliberately do the Agency harm. Perhaps I could meet with you and/or some of your people so you could educate me further and we could discuss the philosophy and policy.

By the way, the Director did agree on the three Washington Post correspondents in your 5 January memorandum saying that he did not know either Mr. Gooding or Mr. Goodman and was therefore not approving them.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Training

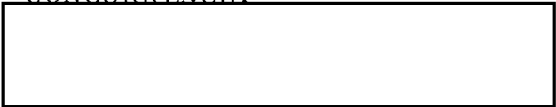

SUBJECT : Senior Seminar Request for Approval of Steven Kelman as Speaker

1. In a list of names of possible speakers for the Senior Seminar which was forwarded to the DD/S on 5 January 1972, the name of Steven Kelman was included. Kelman is not a journalist; we were considering him as an alternate to David Bearman in the Seminar Block concerned with the Agency's domestic environment, in the event we cannot re-schedule Bearman. On further checking, we have learned that Kelman is abroad, and have dropped him from further consideration for the next running.

2. Kelman was an articulate and well publicized activist while he was a student at Harvard University. He occupies the anti-extremist wing of student activism, as reflected in his book, Push Comes to Shove (1970). In April 1970, Foreign Affairs published an article by Kelman, then a senior in Harvard College, entitled "Youth and Foreign Policy," revealing him also as an intelligent observer of foreign policy.
